DISPOSING OF HOUSE WASTE: THE FACTS

Is It A Crime To Give My Waste To Someone Without Authorisation To Carry waste?

YES, Section 34 of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 (amended) sets out the waste duty of care, which applies to anyone who is the holder of controlled waste.

Waste must be passed on to an authorised person.

You should then keep the waste transfer note receipt that sets out certain details of the waste. These transfer notes should be kept for 2 years.

Using an unregistered waste carrier poses a real risk to the environment, health and quality of life. Anyone disposing of waste has a responsibility to ensure that it is disposed of properly.

What Is Controlled Waste?

CONTROLLED waste is any waste except waste from agricultural premises, waste from mines and quarries, explosives and radioactive waste.

How Do I Know If the Person That I Employ To Take Away My Waste Is Authorised?

THERE are simple checks that you can make to ensure that the person that takes away your waste is authorised to do so.
