YOUR COMMENTS ON THE CASE

Dear Mr Wilson, David, I have been deeply disappointed and upset that a man so fond of the countryside, who has enjoyed Lowesby for all its natural wonder, is so set on continually concreting our countryside.

The lack of foresight is astonishing. The impact of housing developments on micro biomes and larger ecosystems is catastrophic and the long term implications of which are still unknown in full detail but what we do know is the depleting the variety and complexity of our country's ecosystems is detrimental in so many ways both to us as humans and to the flora and fauna.

Build up, renovate disused buildings, encourage some innovate the way our city buildings are used, support education about the over population issue, think of the concrete jungle which is slowly taken over and how awful it will be for you grand children's children to have to live in that environment and PLEASE, stop building on green land.

Our air, our water ways, our road systems, health care services (not just local but the larger health service landscape), education systems and food supply chain cannot sustain this ongoing pattern of housing developments, it must stop.

Thank you, in hope,
Sophie de Ville
